

THE REPUBLICANS NOMINATE

Lincoln's City Convention Harmonious and Roggen Selected for Mayor.

THE TICKET AS COMPLETED.

Citizens Being Worked on Pavements—An Inadequate Mail Service—The Label and Anti-Gambling Bills Yet Unassigned.

FROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.

The republican city convention was held in Temple hall yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, ninety delegates being present. It was called to order by City Clerk R. C. Manly. Mr. C. O. Wiedon was elected chairman, and Thos. Cook, secretary. A committee on credentials, consisting of one delegate from each ward, was appointed. There was no contest.

Mr. C. E. Magoon nominated Ed Roggen for mayor. Mr. Burr nominated J. D. Macfarland for the same position.

The ballot resulted in fifteen votes from each of the First, Second, Third, Fifth and Sixth wards for Mr. Roggen, and fifteen from the Fourth ward for Mr. Macfarland. Mr. Roggen's nomination was made unanimously.

In response to a call Mr. Roggen promised, if elected, to give the people a clean and reputable administration of the affairs of the city.

R. C. Manly was nominated clerk and J. T. Jones city treasurer.

Messrs. Joe Godell, W. C. Lane, Joe Burns, Henry Veith and Lewis Gregory were nominated for the board of education, to select two of their number to act on the board.

L. J. Byers was nominated for cemetery trustee.

S. J. Alexander was nominated for the position of chairman of the city central committee, and the following were selected to represent the wards in the same body: First ward, R. O'Neill; Second, E. D. Van Dusen; Third, J. B. Wright; Fourth, A. W. Field; Fifth, J. H. Kramer; Sixth, E. B. Holmes.

A recess of five minutes was taken, when the following councilmen were nominated: First ward, Bernard Dolan; Second, L. W. Billingsly; Third, A. E. Hargraves; Fourth, W. J. Cooper; Fifth, long term, Gran Engsig; short term, Ed Bignow; Sixth, long term, E. P. Holmes; short term, Brad Ringes.

The skating rink had played some agreeable waltzes during the intervals. The convention was harmonious and adjourned at 3:45 p. m.

HAVING PETITIONS.

The paragraph in yesterday's BEE relating to pavements brought an ex-citizens and state and United States official to the BEE correspondent with the statement that it was only too true. He said he had been approached by a public officer and asked to sign a petition for paving in front of his property. He signed. A few days later another official approached him and asked him to sign a petition for the same purpose.

"I have signed one already," the gentleman said, "but that was for cedar blocks; this is for asphaltum."

The first mentioned had not noticed that the first petition had specified any kind of pavement, but subsequent investigation convinced him that it did, and he had signed for a material which he had not desired.

He then told the BEE correspondent that he feared the people, because of their ignorance of the method of proceeding in the matter of securing pavements were being deceived and requested that the matter be shown up in the papers. It is a well known fact that Omaha paving contractors have been here urging these petitions, and their work will be ascertained in a few days.

POSTAL ADVANCEMENT.

Several complaints have lately come to the BEE regarding slowness and irregularity in the delivery of mail from the postoffice in this city. Yesterday, the BEE correspondent asked Postmaster Watkins the cause of the complaint, and his answer was that his force was inadequate to supply the needs of the rapidly increasing population of the city. The amount of mail handled for the last quarter was an increase of 10 per cent over that of the corresponding quarter of last year. Last month the number of pieces of mail matter handled by the office was 949,696. The carriers' work was done by eight men, and those men, as also the clerks in the office, were overworked.

Mr. Watkins, however, said that his office had but recently been examined by Messrs. Brown and Branch, the government inspectors, and they had reported that the clerks and carrier forces were too small; that the lobby was also too small and that the office furniture ought to be renewed. He had just been notified to put on two extra carriers at $100 a month, and to enlarge the lobby, which he will do by cutting a door in the west wall of the building and to supply the furniture as soon as possible.

Mr. Watkins has now been asked for extra clerks and fees they will soon be granted. The placing of the two extra carriers will require a re-districting of the city, and will of course in a measure satisfy the demands of the people. But the place is still too small. Hereafter five of the carriers who work in the intermediate belt between the business district and the limits will be allowed care and Mr. Watkins is now making his estimate of the amount required, which will be forwarded by the postal department.

WILL HE VETO?

The governor has now about fifteen bills passed by the legislature to which he has not attached his veto. To these he is giving a great deal of attention. Among them are the label and gambling bills which, some people feel, his excellency may not sign. Some of the sporting men of town yesterday circulated a petition for the signature of citizens asking the governor to veto the latter bill.

ought to move.

An effort is being made to compel the day and express men to abandon their present stand east of the postoffice and take up another in the hay market. There is no doubt about the matter that a place of less importance should be selected. The appearance of so many teams in so public a place, detracts from the beauty of the spot and sadly destroys a square and thoroughfare, which might otherwise have a metropolitan appearance.

ROBBERIES AND PIETY.

Sunday morning Mr. J. Underwood, the insurance agent, and his wife were going to church, when the former noticed that one of his wife's neckties looked unusually full. He ascertained that it contained some of her jewelry and money which she was taking with her for safe keeping. She was induced to leave the property in the house, and both herself and husband went to church. When they returned home, the money about $120 and the jewelry, valued at about the same, had been stolen. It is supposed a tramp who was seen about the house is responsible for their disappearance.

PRINTERS' COPY.

Secretary of State yesterday put to work a force of young ladies whose duty it is to take printed copies of the bills passed by the late legislature, insert in them the amendments made as also the other changes, and thus prepare the copy for the printing of the same in book form. It is thought that this work will require about a week, the ladies receiving $2 per day.

WANT TO CULTIVATE.

Articles of incorporation were filed into Saturday afternoon in the office of the secretary of state, of the Beatrice Cultivator company. The capital stock is $40,000, with shares at $100 each. One-tenth of the stock must be subscribed before the company can commence business. The incorporation is to last for seventeen years. The incorporators are Samuel Irvin, O. D. Wells, W. D. Conlee and H. A. Conlee.

BUILDING THE TOWER.

A gang of men went to work yesterday morning tearing down the partitions which outline the tower in the corridors of the capitol. They will be put up immediately nearer each entrance, thus giving sufficient room for the workmen to carry on the erection of the structure which was recommended yesterday.

PAY UP OR STOP.

Marshal Beach has made up his mind to force city paymen who have not yet paid their licenses to come to time. There are thirty-seven delinquents in town and these will be compelled to-morrow to pay up or go out of business.

HOSE IS NEEDED.

Yesterday at 10:30 o'clock Fire Warden Newberry received word from the mayor of Wahoo announcing that that town was on fire and beyond the control of the local department and asking for assistance. He immediately dispatched four men and 1,000 feet of hose in a special train for the burning city.

WANTS TO BE COUNCILMAN.

Mr. J. J. Butler was recently nominated for city treasurer on the democratic ticket, but he has resigned in favor of J. E. Hopkins, agent of the Wells-Fargo express company. Mr. Butler has consented to run for the position of councilman of the Fourth ward.

THE POLLS.

The polling places in to-day's election will be as follows: First ward, engine house No. 2; Second ward, engine house No. 1; Third ward, Green's lumber office, Fourteenth, between O and P; Fourth ward, Howard's shop; Fifth ward, Gessler's store, Thirteenth and E streets; Sixth ward, station house, Twenty-seventh and K streets.

THE DRAINAGE OF VENICE.

Rome correspondence London Standard: Venice has taken up the question of sanitation, and the Instituto Veneto has inaugurated a discussion on "the drainage of cities in relation to endemic and epidemic maladies, with general reference to drainage system existing in the city of Venice and the modifications to be made in it in the limitations imposed by the special topographical conditions of the city, with the scope of its application to the sanitary needs of the city." From a brochure on early drains in Venice, just published by the well-known Venetian architect, Giacomo Quarenghi, I translate the following passages: "In December last our municipal council voted a tax on private sewers proportional to the damage they do to the banks of the canals, and universal consent was given to the plan. It is necessary, however, to regulate the construction and emptying of these. There are many things to be noted concerning the construction of drains. The worst of their inconveniences is the deterioration after a long time of the soil of a house or entire city, where the air circulates and comes out charged with exhalations, where infectious germs find conditions favorable to reproduction and development because the land under human habitation, as in the earth of cemeteries, after a time the reducing agents are exhausted. From the point of view of health, to this use of cesspools in earth is added Saturday, we should prefer the harmless custom of the fisher population of some of our islands, who throw everything into the canals, where the salt-water, solvent per excellence and universal solvent, takes charge of the consequences. In the special case of Venice where the sea water floods the land, we must study what its disinfecting properties may be, what its action filtering through the porous strata of the soil of our city, and how this action can be best utilized for general advantage without any intention to trifle with the cleanliness of our canals. Cesspools through which the sea water filters freely, will operate better than those of presumed impermeability. It seems to me that the Venetians have like the Romans, taken up the question seriously without waiting to be driven by the foreign press.

Some Old Sunday Customs.

Dr. Eggleston contributes an illustrated paper on "Church and Meeting-House Before the Revolution" to the April Century. From it we quote as follows: "In Connecticut, perhaps more than anywhere else, Sunday was a sort of popular holiday. The rigor of its observance abated perceptibly until long after the revolution. This extreme scrupulousness about Sabbath-keeping was doubtless the moving cause of the building of the 'Sabbath-day houses' those were little shanties standing on the meeting-house green, each intended to accommodate a family during the interval between the two services. Some Sabbath-day houses were built with a stall at one end to shelter the horse, while the family sought refuge in the other, where there was a chimney and a meager furniture of rude seats and a table. Here on arrival before the first service the owners deposited their hats and deposited their luncheon, and to this camp-like place they came back to eat their dough-nuts and thaw themselves out after their first long sitting in the arctic climate of the meeting-house. Sometimes two families had a Sabbath-day house together; sometimes there were two rooms in a Sabbath-day house that the sexes might sit apart—for nothing so agreeable as conversation between boys and girls was permitted during the consecrated time. But some parishes in Massachusetts, and perhaps elsewhere, had a common 'noon house' for all comers to rest in. Fireside assemblies on Sunday were not infrequently held in the noon house, where the danger of proving delightful to those who were prone to enjoy the society of other human beings, and hence the pastors were put upon their best contrivances to have most of the interval between the services filled up with the reading aloud of edifying books and other exercises calculated to keep the mind in a becomingly irksome frame."

One of the curiosities of Cayuga county, New York, is a hotel built directly upon the dividing line between two townships. It has been the custom for many years for the manager to let the house to one end of the house to the other, just according to the way the town went on the excise question, and in that way he has managed to obtain a license, either in one town or the other, most of the time.

The governor of Massachusetts has become jealous of the attention given to outlaws; but he still continues to recommend the famous Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for coughs and colds.

One little boy six years old asked his mother, while tears stood in his big eyes, "If this was heaven," to which she promptly replied, "No, my son, but we are on the right road."

Why Men Get Bald.

New York Commercial Advertiser: "I have heard nearly as many explanations of baldness as I have seen bald-headed men, and that's a good many," said a down town barber the other day. "But I never heard one that gave the true cause. Some people say it's dissipation, cutting the hair too short, letting it grow too long, smoking too strong cigars, smoking a pipe, smoking cigarettes, drinking strong coffee, drinking bad whisky, wearing high hats at night, wearing a hat in the house, not wearing a hat out of doors, worrying, late hours and early piety."

"Now, did you ever notice what classes are most commonly bald? That throws a deal of light on the cause of baldness. I have found that as a rule retail salesmen, bookkeepers, and some office clerks are more often bald than any other class of men. Why? Because they habitually stand or sit nearly every evening under a gas light."

"Bookkeepers always have a strong light over their heads. So do clerks who have to work at night. Retail salesmen sell goods under powerful burners that are most of the time directly over their heads. The artificial heat dries out the hair, makes it brittle and unhealthy and finally kills it at the root. That's how the people get bald. If you will pass your hand through your hair after you have been standing under a gas light for a few moments you will see at once how it is. Although you may not have noticed the heat, your hair, if you've got any, will be fairly hot to the roots. You'll be surprised to notice, too, at what a distance from the light the heat will take effect. Now there's nothing in the world that is so bad for the hair as getting it dry. It should be moist all the time, and with the oil that is naturally secreted by the little cells at the roots. When this oil is continually and rapidly evaporated, as it is when the head is kept heated by the gas light, the cell dries up and the hair falls out."

"There won't be much baldness in the world after two or three generations have used the electric light exclusively. People who sit under gas light should wear some kind of a non-conducting head gear to protect themselves."

is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this peculiar medicine.

Apromps of the proposition to found a Beecher library in Brooklyn, the following utterance of the late Mr. Beecher himself in Plymouth pulpit on February 13 last is quoted: "A man who should establish in Brooklyn a free library for the people would be a regenerator of the city, and, if he pleased to have his name inscribed, that name could never go below the horizon."

RUSHING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of his life. This is especially true of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unbearable and sudden death brings relief. These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Rean tele following from those who have tested it.

John S. Kennedy, Spearville, Kansas says: "I have had rheumatism for two years. Athlophoros cured me of rheumatism
